

Touch of Presence® School for Biodynamic Studies presents: Biodynamic Cranial Approach – Introduction with Mary Reis | Louisville, KY | Nov 21-23, 2025

Touch of Presence® Biodynamic Cranial Approach (BCA) is a non-medical touch modality that deals in a special way with the power of presence, stillness, and the disposition of “Wholeness as Health”. It supports the inner development of the practitioner towards a direct contact with what is known in the Craniosacral world as the ‘breath of life’. This course emphasizes foundation principles and inner development practices designed to equip participants with embodied perceptual capacity to be guided by the natural inherent forces behind the biodynamic approach. Previous experience in craniosacral work is not required. We welcome all people, with or without therapeutic background, who are interested in personal growth, the development of embodied present-awareness, and the naturally resulting increased perceptual capacity.

Mary Reis’ career in the bodywork field spans over three decades of private practice and teaching. An instructor at the Florida School of Massage since 1995, she enjoys supporting students on their journeys of self-discovery. Mary carries with her a great appreciation for the physical body, the natural world, and our place in it. While Massage Therapy originally drew her into the bodywork profession, it is the study and practice of craniosacral work that she finds most nourishing and enriching. Working closely with Giorgia Milne and the Touch of Presence® School for Biodynamic Studies since 2011, she loves how the Biodynamic Cranial Approach reveals and makes tangible the mysteries of life, and deepens her appreciation for being in this world.
